Local 'Young Miss' will be celebrity at parade this Sunday

California State Young Miss Natalie Briana Miles, an honor student at West Sacramento's Golden State Middle School, will be a featured celebrity at the Community Day Parade on Sunday, October 16. The local 12-year-old music lover also is a collector of dolls and loves horseback riding. There will be plenty of horses at the annual parade which begins at 1 p.m. on West Capitol Avenue from Harbor to Jefferson Boulevards.

The annual Health and Safety Fair and Heritage Festival will be held from noon to 5 p.m. at the corner of Jefferson and West Capitol.

Local boxer to be grand marshal

This past February in Sacramento, the nearly 5,000 people in attendance at Arco Arena saw then-World Boxing Association lightweight champion Tony Lopez take a controversial decision from challenger Dingaan Thobela. They also saw the professional debut of an outstanding amateur who had fallen just short of his dream of making the 1992 Olympic Boxing Team.

Guillermo "Willie" Jorrin didn't disappoint them. When he opening bell rang, the 122-pound Jorrin went right after his opponent, Isaul Dieguez of San Diego. Jorrin hurt Dieguez with a left hook to the body in the opening seconds, then moments later followed a right to the jaw with a terrific left hook to the chin. Dieguez collapsed onto his back, counted out at just 1:09 of the first round.

Jorrin has agreed to serve as grand marshal in the West Sacramento's Community Day Parade, which begins at 1 p.m. on Sunday heading east on West Capitol Ave. from Harbor Blvd. In conjunction with the parade, the Health and Safey Fair and the Heritage Festival will feature food and informational booths set up until at least 4 p.m. at the southeast corner of Jefferson Blvd. and West Capitol Ave.

Born and raised in West Sacramento, Jorrin capped an outstanding amateur career by winning the Western Olympic Trials at 119 pounds. While there, he caught the attention of Mike Madden, son of ex-Oakland Raiders coach and now-CBS sports commentator John Madden. Not long after watching Jorrin's successful pro debut, Mike Madden signed to manage Jorrin along with partners Arlen Opper and Larry Plisken. He is trained by Don Conley and Fred Castano.

Jorrin has since won three more bouts, two by first-round knockout, the last a six-round decision over Pat Chavez in October.

On April 9 in Reno, Jorrin won by decision in the 6th round. On June 8, he won by unanimous decision in the 8th round. And on August 2, Jorrin had another knockout in the 2nd round at Cache Creek Casino.

Jorrin's next bout is scheduled for November 18 on the title bout of James Tony and Roy Jones.

Suggestion from fire dept:

Change smoke alarm batteries twice a year

From The West Sacramento Fire Department

With smoke detectors now in 82 percent of American homes, the problem is no longer homes without smoke detectors, but homes with smoke detectors that don't work.

Nearly one-third of all residential smoke detectors don't work because of worn or missing batteries -- a factor that contributes to many of the estimated 5,000 deaths and 100,000 - 200,000 injuries caused each year by home fires.

Smoke detector maintenance is one of the simplest, most effective ways to help reduce the thousands of deaths and injuries caused by home fire each year. In fact, a working smoke detector cuts the risk of dying in a home fire by nearly half.

Seniors win contest of pride at first pep rally

By Rhapsody Flores
River City High School student

River City High School held its first 1994-1995 school year rally on September 9. The theme for the rally was Renaissance. The Renaissance rally was held to announce and celebrate River City's new Renaissance members.

Anxiously awaiting for the rally to begin, the classes sat proudly as their class color shone. The Freshman Class excitedly showed the bright color of orange. The Sophomore color of turquoise was announce with streamers and signs. The Junior Class of 1996 proudly displayed their regal color of purple. They presented the color in steamers and banners stating "1, 2, 3, Junior Victory." The Senior Class of 1995 flaunted their well-known color of green.

The rally began with the traditional senior walk. The Senior class proudly walked to the Whitney Houston song "One Moment in Time." Throughout the rally, lower classmen were in awe as the seniors demonstrated their pride, with loud chants for class members. "1, 2, Seniors, we rule" was left echoing in the ears of all at the rally. River City's countdown cheer ended with a loud display of Raider pride, as all classes participated in "5, 4, 3, 2, 1, Raiders #1." In the end, the seniors came out on top, after winning River City's first rally.

The Renaissance program is designed to recognize and promote academic excellence. This is done by rewarding Renaissance members.

River City's Renaissance program is broken up into four levels:

Gold Level: 4.0 GPA or better; 95% attendance; no "U" or "N" citizenship marks; no suspensions, Saturday school, or administrative detentions; involvement in school or community activity.

Silver Level: 3.0 GPA or above -- no D's or F's; 90% attendance; no "U" or "N" citizenship marks; no suspensions, in-school suspensions, or administrative detentions; involvement in school or community activity.

Copper Level: 2.0 GPA -- no D's or F's; 90% attendance; no suspensions, in-school suspensions; no "U" citizenship marks.

Blue Level: .5 or better GPA improvement; 90% attendance; no "U" citizenship marks.

A-frame to get O.K. from city council

By Steve Marschke

If all goes well, Bob Dunham can put his sign back up in a couple of weeks, and he won't be a criminal, either.

Bob and his wife, Gloria, are the owners of Freddie's Gourmet, a sandwich deli on 15th St. in West Sacramento. They were dismayed to learn several months ago that the sandwichboard sign they placed near the street was a violation of a city ordinance.

Leaving it up meant paying a fine ("108 for the first violation, $500 for the second, and a misdemeanor for the third time," said Bob Dunham).

The problem was, it was hard for travellers on 15th St. (an small arterial connecting Park Blvd. to Jefferson Blvd.) to see the Dunhams' business without the sign. The deli is set back from the street, and drivers pretty much have to turn their heads ninety degrees to know it is there.

In fact, said Dunham, the deli's lunch trade increased measurably when the sign was out.

Bob Dunham and his A-frame sign in front of Freddie's Gourmet Deli

"That sign brought about an eight or nine percent increase in business," he commented. "That's a substantial increase in business, without a lot of outlay."

But city officials told him it must go. Among other things, they told him that placing the A-frame sign on a small grass "parkway" next to the street, and between the two driveways which serve the small shopping center, was a liability hazard to the city.

The Dunhams thought the decision was anti-business, and that it didn't make sense. They decided to fight it.

"I had to start with the Chamber of Commerce, and then I went to EDAC (the city's economic development advisory commission), of which I'm now a member. Then I went to the city planning commission, who referred me to a zoning task force."

Dunham said that all those he talked to were sympathetic, but it took awhile for the city to find a way to accommodate the needs of Freddie's Deli and others in the same situation. At tonight's city council meeting, the council is scheduled to begin adoption of a new ordinance which has Dunham's A-frame sign in mind. The ordinance will set down the conditions under which businesses will soon be able to use such signs, in some situations.

"Basically, the sign has to be less than two feet wide, three feet in height, and within eyesight of the business," Dunham explained. "It's supposed to be done artistically."

Until the new ordinance is formally in effect, though, you'll still have to turn your head to see where Freddie's is.

The classes will be held Wednesday, October 5, between 7 and 10 p.m.; Saturday, October 8, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.; Wednesday, October 12, between 7 and 10 p.m.; and Saturday, October 15, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

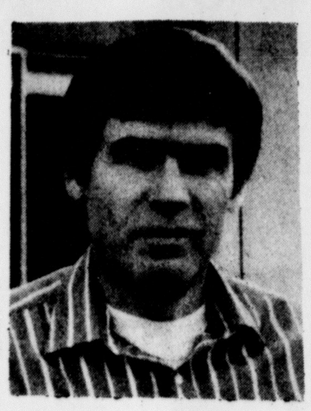

All classes will be held at the new Sutter Davis Hospital in meetings rooms 1, 2 and 3, which are near the main lobby entrance, 2000 Sutter Place, on the corner of Highway 113 and Covell Boulevard in Davis. There is a $25 materials and instruction fee per person. Payment plans and limited scholarship assistance is available by calling Yolo Hospice's executive director at 758-5566. Barbara Dupree, Yolo Hospice's executive director, explained, "The course is designed to train people who are interested or think they may be interested in volunteering as a patient care volunteer in Yolo County and in Dixon." She stressed that those who are bilingual in Spanish and English or in Russian and English and/or other languages are critically

Conversation with a survivor of the Old South

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

A couple of weeks ago, I had to go to a doctor's appointment in downtown Sacramento and as I reluctantly sat down in the crowded waiting room to nervously await my turn to be poked and prodded, a thin, sweet-looking black lady who had to be in her seventies and who was supporting herself with the aid of a cane shuffled over and sat down next to me. She had just finished her examination and a nurse called to her, "Your transportation back home should be here any minute."

"Thank you," she said kindly to the nurse.

"You're all done, huh?" I asked her, wishing that I, too, had my appointment over with.

"Yes," she said.

"Is everything okay?"

She nodded her head and said, "I thought there might be a little something wrong with my heart, but the doctor said it was probably just gas. I do have diabetes, though, and I hope my bus gets here soon so I can go home."

Much to my surprise, the nurse suddenly called out my name and motioned that it was my turn to go back to the examination rooms. As I stood up, my thoughts quickly turned to the fun and games awaiting me, and away from my conversation with the nice elderly lady.

A good hour and a half later, I finally escaped from the clutches of my doctor and his sadistic assistants and was making my way out of the office when I noticed that the lady I had been talking to earlier was still sitting in her chair. "Hasn't your bus got here yet?" I asked her. She sadly shook her head no. "Where do you live?" I asked.

"Over in West Sacramento."

"Really? Well, so do I. You can ride along with me if you'd like."

With a twinkle in her eye, she said, "I guess that would be okay -- if you don't think your wife will mind."

Hattie Mary Schroder Gordon (she likes to be called Mary) turned out to be seventy-eight years-old, still full of life and sharp as a tack. She was born in a little town called Eugula, Alabama (near Montgomery) during the first World War and later moved to West Virginia, where her father worked in the coal mines. "People were different back then," she explained to me, "they visited more and were so much nicer to each other. They helped one another. Now days people just aren't as friendly as they used to be."

All was not easy, however, for a young black girl growing up in the deep south back in the 1920's and 1930's. "But things have gotten a lot better over the years," she said. "Back when I was young, if you took a package or something over to a white person's house, you always had to go to the back door. If you forgot and went to the front door, you were liable to get hit -- and by people you had known all your life. I remember when I was fourteen, my daddy sat me down and told me that although it wasn't right, colored people were treated differently than white people, and that there were things I shouldn't do and places I shouldn't go because I might get hurt. So, when I was young, I mostly just visited friends and went to church. I've always loved going to church and it's been a very important part of my life. People in my family have been deacons, ministers, and missionaries -- and my mother had the most beautiful voice in the choir."

I asked her why she had moved out to California. "My father was out here working and he sent for all of us. I was supposed to get married to this one man, but I decided to marry this other one instead. I was seventeen when I got married, but I'm afraid he turned out to be one of those born liars, so I had to divorce him."

"Did you marry again?" I asked her.

"Yes, I did -- and I was engaged a few times, too. I've got three children and seven grandchildren -- and two of them grandchildren I raised all by myself. But after awhile my second husband got to be quite a rascal, too, so out he went. We sure had some good fights, though. He'd say, `Mary, you're crazy,' and I'd say `No, I'm the one with the good sense.' She laughed and then suddenly asked me what month I was born in.

"August," I answered.

"Which day in August?"

"The eighteenth."

She rolled her bright, cheerful eyes, smiled even wider and said, "That makes you a Leo, you know, just like my second husband. Now those Leo's are a lot of fun to talk to and be around and everything, but to tell you the truth, a woman sure doesn't want to marry one of them!"

As I said goodbye to Mary, I asked her if there was any secret to growing old with such grace and good humor, as she has. "Oh, not really," she replied. "I've been very lucky -- the Lord has blessed me with a wonderful life. I think the most important thing, though, is to always try real hard to be friendly and nice -- regardless."

By Chuck Robinson

In the third quarter, Bear River scored on a 43 yard pass and the kick was good, to make it 17-0. Bear River again scored on a two yard run and kicked to lead 24-0.

Late in the fourth quarter, River City was determined not to be shut out, and scored on a 15-yard pass to Jesus Martinez from quarterback Justin Hanks, to end the game Bear River 24, River City 6.

On offense, Paul Barber had 52 yards; Alex Victor, 47 yards; Josh Castro, 4 yards; John Phoutachack, 1 yard; Jeremy Deaton, 1 yard and quarterback Justin Hanks, 30 yards rushing and 9 complete passes for 102 yards.

Jonathan played an exceptional game and made some very important tackles.

Coach Rod Massey said, "I was disappointed in the mental mistakes as they were very costly. But in the same token, I am proud of the performance of this team. We just have to correct those mistakes and go on and play the ball we are capable of playing."

Coach Chris Baker commented, "Obviously, we're disheartened with the loss. They clearly outplayed us on both sides of the ball, and deserved to win. Our job now is to refocus and move forward. The disappointing thing is that I still feel we are a stronger team than our 2-3 record might indicate."

Players of the week:

OFFENSE: #10, Justin Hanks, who rushed for 30 yards and completed 9 passes for 102 yards.

DEFENSE: #45, Terry Warford, who made 8 tackles and had 2 assists and 1 quarterback sack.

The Sports Insider

By Richard Novoa

The San Francisco 49ers (4-2) rebounded from a 14-0 deficit to beat the Detroit Lions and their All-Pro running back Barry Sanders 27-21. The 49ers started the game with dropped passes and penalties just like last week in their loss to the Eagles.

Steve Young was sacked and forced out of the game early in the first quarter as the Lions had taken a 14-0 lead on a Barry Sanders five yard touchdown run.

By this time, the 49ers were on the sidelines throwing helmets and screaming profanities at each other and asking the question, "Are we this BAD?"

The answer was "no," as the 49ers reeled off 21 consecutive points led by rookie fullback William Floyd's two touchdowns and a key interception by safety Merton Hanks.

The game was a gut check for the Niners, because next Sunday they travel to Atlanta (4-2) as five point favorites, and with first place in the NFC West Division at stake. 49ers 28, Falcons 17.

The San Diego Chargers (5-0) remained the only undefeated team in the NFL as they defeated Kansas City 20-6. The Chargers defense, led by Junior Seau, was brilliant, keeping Joe Montana and the Chiefs out of the end zone. The Chargers are three-point favorites when they visit New Orleans on Sunday. San Diego 23, New Orleans 13.

The Chiefs (3-2) have lost two in a row and travel to Denver for a Monday night showdown with the Broncos (1-4), who won their first game of the season in Seattle last week. Denver 24, Kansas City 23.

The Los Angeles Raiders (2-3) hung on in the fourth quarter to beat New England 21-17, but are in real tough this week as they travel again to the East Coast to face Dan Marino and the Miami Dolphins (4-2). This will be the game of the week as the Raiders upset the Dolphins in OT 37-34.

The Sacramento Gold Miners pulled off a last-second field goal on Saturday to beat Toronto 34-32. With a crowd of 13,305 on hand at Hornet Field, the Gold Miners (7-6-1) moved into fourth place and closer to a playoff position. The Gold Miners travel on Sunday to Shreveport (0-14) to play the winless Pirates at noon.

See ya next week!!

McGowan wins round one in local senate debate

Friday evening's debate between Mike McGowan and Maurice Johannessen showed that, at least in one respect, voters in this senate district are lucky. They have a clear choice in ideologies, with McGowan taking a moderate Democrat's path and Johannessen a good example of a conservative Republican.

Beyond that, the choice becomes less clear. West Sacramento, which is hometown to McGowan and a very Democratic city, would naturally tend to be attracted to this former mayor as its favorite candidate. This is especially true because his opponent comes from the faraway city of Redding and is virtually unknown around here.

Then again, West Sacramentans are intimately familiar with McGowan's checkered political history in this city, and past polls show that about as many West Sacramentans dislike him as like him.

McGowan was the clear winner of the debate last week, at least in terms of his performance. He was personable and communicative, and comfortable in his role in front of the partisan crowd supporting him.

(At such debates, as well as at "candidates' nights" in which the public gets a chance to hear from a slew of people competing for an elected post, most of the audience already has its mind made up, and is there to support one campaign or another.)

Johannessen didn't do badly, but displayed some discomfort playing to a crowd already stacked against him. He bristled at several verbal jabs at him by McGowan, who managed to bring criticisms of his opponent into the event, despite the format which prevented a true debate between the two.

One such jab was a McGowan anecdote about the school district in Williams, north of Woodland and inside the senate district. McGowan said that the district could afford to bus its kids to school every morning but didn't have the money to bus them back home. He added that if he were the incumbent senator, and not Johannessen, that would have been one of the first problems he would have fixed.

A good line. But exactly how does a state senator single-handedly fix a school district's financial woes?

The barbs went in one direction on Friday, but don't expect that to last. While McGowan had the pleasure of knowing he got the better of his opponent in his home-town debate, it was something of a hollow victory. Few votes were at stake. He did not deliver any kind of a knockout blow, and may have succeeded only in irritating his opponent into fighting back hard.

By the time the November ballot rolls around, there will be plenty of jousting, plenty of accusations, and enough dirty laundry to go around.

As McGowan himself said several weeks ago, "Fasten your seatbelts, it's going to be a rough ride."

Dorothy Adamo, Steve Roberts, the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce and other organizers of the event are to be commended for running the event as smoothly as they did. From a procedural standpoint, the debate went off virtually without a hitch.

Rebuttal to Huffington: immigration trouble overblown

By Hope Herr

Remember the astronaut, Rusty Schweikart, who was momentarily lost in space. He was floating outside an Apollo aircraft when something went wrong and he was stranded. In his words, "I noticed that countries didn't have boundaries and that people were not marked socialist or capitalist, black or white, man or woman. All I could think about was how misleading it is to look at the world as consisting of individual parts."

He was in awe of the "oneness" of all life on earth and his adventure in outer space permanently changed his values. He returned to earth as a "global thinker." Status and money no longer seemed important. Helping people, all people, became his only goal. He became a citizen of the world.

All the world's great religions teach that God created one world and one people. But throughout the ages, various groups, caught up in fear and greed, staked out their territory, grabbed land from others, and crisscrossed the continents with arbitrary borders.

Like petulant children in the sandbox, we still draw a line in the dirt and threaten to punch any kind who steps across it. And that brings us to the border between Mexico and California and the News-Ledger article by Huffington.

Petulant is the perfect adjective to describe Huffington, the Texas multi-millionaire, who decided to move to California and enter politics three years ago. I watched him in action on a Congress panel recently. I now know why his staff is desperate to keep him from a verbal debate with Diane Feinstein. I hate to be indelicate . . . but he whines. And it is the most irritating kind of whining, like a four-year old who has missed his nap.

His article was full of deliberate misinformation. Undocumented workers are not now and have never been eligible for social services. The only real issues at stake are health care and education. A recent study by the Urban Institute concluded that immigrants (legal and illegal) pay nearly $30 million MORE in taxes each year than they receive in benefits. Also, they found that new arrivals actually create more jobs than they take. Remember, they become consumers of American products.

Still if the polls are correct, Prop. 187 will pass. So a month from today, we will be living in a nazi-state. We will all have to be documented by a national registry and carry proof of citizenship. Doctors, teachers, and social workers, will become lawbreakers if they don't report "suspicious" immigrants.

The TV news will flash scenes of children being booted out of school and sick people turned away from the hospital. Perhaps those who support Prop. 187 will enjoy seeing crying babies and despairing parents loaded onto buses for deportation.

Those families that avoid deportation will have illiterate children and teenagers roaming the streets. There will be epidemics as contagious diseases spread from those denied medical care. Business will be hurt by labor shortages.

Harold Ezell, past Reagan/Bush INS Commissioner, is co-author of the bill. He refers to immigrants as "wets" and once proposed "frying" them.

Prop. SOS will not "save," but split and sicken our state. One month from now, California (Spanish for "paradise"), the sunshine state, the golden state, could become a place of darkness.

As a native, I will be deeply ashamed. I feel morally obligated to become involved in organizing an underground health and educational system until the law is repealed.

Christ taught us that we are one in the spirit. He showed us we must love our brother as ourselves. If any of His followers are still undecided on this issue, they should imagine our gentle Lord walking into a polling booth and pulling the curtain. Is there any question on how He should cast His vote?

At this point in time, with the State of California suffering from the effects of a hard recession, Governor Pete Wilson is the man to see us through for the next four years. To my mind, Governor Wilson is level-headed, moderate, and has demonstrated that he is not a partisan radical.

The Sacramento River registered 3 feet 6 inches U. S. guage at the S. P. bridge yesterday. This is a higher guage than has been shown for some several months past and indicates that the water from the rice fields is making a showing in the river and that since pumping from the river stopped the level has naturally raised. Everybody using straight river water should be extremely careful at this time because stagnant rice water contains many germs that may breed disease in human beings.

Request has been made on the municipal garbage collecting department of Sacramento City by several residents of Washington that the collecting service be extended to this side of the river. Yesterday Superintendent Haskings of the Garbage Collecting Department made inquiry as to how many residents of Washington would need the service. He made request that those desiring to take advantage of the garbage collecting service of Sacramento should telephone to the city hall requesting the service.

The children of the public school have been active during the past two weeks cultiating the front yard of the building so that after the first rain blue grass can be sown on the ground. A great many flowers have also been planted to beautify the grounds so that when the county highway is built along Elizabeth street the school grounds will make a presentable appearance. All of the lot in the rear of the school building will be held as play ground space.

The boys around town have been laying for Jack Bennetts, the Postmaster of Washington, because he announced that on next Sunday morning he is going out for a mess of ducks into the rice fields of Colusa County. Bennetts has one of the old-fashioned guns with which he refuses to part and which he used for several years at Landewellynonetzyll in Wales. He also used it while drilling holes in the mines at Grass Valley where it was very useful, and his boast was that he can still use it in the fields after ducks. Many friends are waiting his return because they have been promised that they will share in the proceeds of the hunt.

They told Judge Harrison that the longer he made their sentences the better they would be suited.

CLARKSBURG MAY GET TWO DAILY MAIL SERVICES

WASHINGTON (D. C.), Oct. 8.—Representative Charles F. Curry, who has been attempting to secure better mail service for Clarksburg, Cal., has been informed by the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General that bids have been advertised for carrying of mails from Sacramento to Clarksburg, daily except Sunday.

If satisfactory bids are received, the department will contract to the successful bidder.

The one mail a day from Sacramento to be carried under the new arrangement will supplement the daily mail carried by rural route from Hood, and will give Clarksburg two mails daily.

TYRANNY OF—

SUBWAY AT FIFTH STREET WOULD HELP IN SOLVING WESTERN AND NORTHERN ENTRANCE TO SACRAMENTO

ALL RAILROAD CROSSINGS COULD BE AVOIDED AND YOLO COUNTY COULD COMBINE WITH STATE IN BUILDING ONE GOOD ROAD WAY

Following the article published in last week's Independent in relation to a northern and a western entrance to Sacramento over a good roadway, W. F. Purnell called on the Independent and suggested the following solution:

Mr. Purnell would excavate a subway under the S. P. railroad tracks at 5th street in Washington. He would widen the subway under the Sacramento Northern at 5th street near its southern end and he would combine the two roads—that from the north and that from the south—just north of the Southern Pacific tracks at 5th street.

This is perhaps the best solution that has been offered so far. Traffic from the south on emerging from the subway would proceed a block north then turning towards the bridge would reach 3rd street in Washington and would not be forced to again cross any railroad tracks.

Traffic from the north would reach the subway without crossing any railroad tracks at 5th street and if the roadway were sufficiently wide there need be no congestion in reaching the Southern Pacific bridge.

Purnell's solution of the Natomas traffic is very practical. A bridge at Bryte's Bend would materially help the property owners of Bryte and Washington. Two years from now the Natomas traffic will be enormous and cannot be accomodated at the subway at 12th street in Sacramento. Diverting it to the Yolo side of the river will have the advantage of shortening the route, an object that is very desirable of attainment.

North Sacramento is growing rapidly and its traffic will find difficulty in getting entrance through the 12th street road. Then again the growth of the automobile business will add more traffic so that it will be a question very soon of who can reach the subway first in order to get to town.

The State Highway Commission has only a temporary road through Washington. As it stands today that road is a disgrace. It is dangerous because at 5th street there have been many accidents and many people have been hurt there.

Yolo County is about to build a road along 6th street from the S. P. tracks northerly one block and thence to the end of the bridge. A combination could be made whereby Yolo county and the State Highway Commission could join in building the road from the suggested subway at 5th street and thence to the end of the S. P. bridge, thus avoiding any railroad crossing and eliminating the dangerous curves that now exist at 5th street and 3rd street where two railroad crossings exist.

This paper thinks very well of Mr. Purnell's suggestion, especially because it is practical and inexpensive. Not much excavation would have to be made at the subway and an automatic pumping plant could be installed there to remove surface water that might settle in the subway during the winter. Such a plant is located at the 12th street subway now and at the subway under the railroad tracks at Davis.

SATURDAY DANCE AND ENTERTAINMENT TO BE BIG SUCCESS

For the benefit of the Catholic church in Washington a dance and entertainment will be held in the Town Hall next Saturday evening.

A working committee of arrangements has been busily engaged preparing for this event with the result that those who attended Saturday evening are promised a splendid time.

The dance will be the principal feature but interspersed between the dances the following program will be rendered:

1.—Song by Blair Manchester.
2.—Fancy dancing by Dollie Keenright.
3.—Song by Mr. Ed. Lohman.
4.—Song, by Miss Helen Azevedo.
5.—Violin duet, by Master Francis Boyer and Master Hanley Noonan.
6.—Fancy dancing, by Kathleen Morrill.

Music for the dance and other numbers will be furnished by a large orchestra under the leadership of O. F. Boyer.

Refreshments will be served during the evening in the way of ice cream, home made cakes and coffee, which will be in charge of Mrs. Olga Machada.

A feature of the entertainment will be the prizes that are to be offered first at the door and secondly for the best dancers. These prizes have been donated by well wishers of a worthy cause.

The committee of arrangements consists of: Mr. Ed. Moss, Mr. A. Marty, Mr. M. Crean, Mr. N. Downs, Mr. J. Taylor, Miss M. Anater, Miss M. Traversi, Mrs. O. Machado, Miss N. Korell, Miss L. Lear.

TOWN HALL TALK

Contributed by the City of West Sacramento

This is the second in a series of articles which will appear regularly in The News-Ledger and will cover a variety of topics concerning city government and services. If you have a concern that you would like to see addressed in a future article, please send your question in writing to:

If you are wondering how you might acquire a stronger voice in running your city without running for office, opportunity is knocking at your door now.

When West Sacramento incorporated in 1987, the City set up a number of commissions and boards — panels comprised of city leaders and residents, who convene each month to make important decisions about planning, growth, environmental issues and social services.

By committing a few hours a month, you can be a part of shaping the future of West Sacramento. Your options include:

The Code of Appeals Board hears appeals made by citizens regarding fire, housing, building and even nuisance abatement codes. The board determines, whether or not a code has been properly interpreted and applied to the case being appealed.

The Planning Commission implements, enforces and makes recommendations for amendments to planning and zoning laws. The Planning Commission is one of the more popular commissions because of its involvement in the City's growth. This commission also has approval authority for certain planning issues. In general, serving on the commission is an excellent way to learn how a city plans and organizes its growth.

The Economic Development Advisory Commission acts as an advisor to the City Council on a broad range of marketing and business issues. The commission recently recommended the City engage a market research firm to conduct a retail market study to identify potential retail opportunities within West Sacramento. The recommendation was approved by the City Council and the study is currently underway.

The Commission on Aging has adopted policies on a wide variety of issues affecting our city's elderly from establishing senior recreational programs to introducing full-service facilities for seniors at local gas stations. Creative and rewarding ways to help seniors are discussed and implemented at each session.

The Parks and Community Services Commission provides the main source of public input in developing the Department of Parks and Community Services' programs each year. The commission assists the department in developing new programs and clever fundraisers, such as Celebrity Server Night and the Riverbank Music Festival.

The Youth Commission in West Sacramento is one of the most highly regarded in the state. Representatives from other cities have modeled their youth organizations and programs after those established here. This dynamic group is one of the most active commissions in the city with many youth programs to its credit.

Other commissions include: The Housing Advisory Commission, The Hazmat Advisory Commission (Hazardous Materials) and The Cable Television Advisory Commission. In addition, there are special task forces which also get involved with issues of a more time-specific nature. The City Hall/Community Center Site Selection Task Force, which is currently reviewing sites and selection criteria for the facility, is one such example.

Periodically, City Clerk Helen Kanowsky posts openings for positions on these various commissions, boards and task forces in the local newspapers. Those residents who participate find it rewarding to see their ideas come to fruition. Others feel a sense of pride and a sense of civic duty. Most will agree, however, that it can be a lot of fun!

Please watch your local newspapers for announcements concerning openings on Commissions and Boards or call City Clerk Helen Kanowsky at 373-5800.

TIPS ON TRIPS

Travel With Allergies

Allergy Sufferers Can Still Enjoy the Great Outdoors!

(NAPS)—When allergies become unbearable at home, hit the road—take off and leave allergies in the dust! One way to avoid the source of your allergy is to literally leave it behind and travel to a region with better conditions. Since it usually takes about two years to develop allergies indigenous to any region, even short trips can be a step in the right direction. And, don't forget to pack an over-the-counter antihistamine/decongestant, or the medication prescribed by your doctor.

• If traveling by car, keep the windows closed. Select a mode of transportation that has air-conditioning; it filters irritants and pollens from the air.

• A beach anywhere is one of the best places to visit, especially along the Caribbean and American coastlines.

• In the United States, try to plan your destination in hot and dry areas. Among the best choices is rural Arizona.

• Areas of high elevation (over 5,000 feet) are good, as the altitude and relative cold reduce pollens and air-borne allergens. Mountain ranges and areas in Northern California are recommended vacation spots.

• Avoid camping and hiking in the woods, where mold growth on rotted logs and other vegetation is high. If camping is in your plans, make sure to wash your sleeping bags in very hot water before leaving.

• Clean beach houses and cabins early in the season, as mold and house dust mite levels increase during the off-season.

• At a spa, avoid the steam room, another "hot spot" for mold.

• Hotel rooms should be cleaned daily to prevent mold and dust build-up, and always request smoke-free hotel rooms.

• When shopping, avoid antique shops, where dust and mold can literally have hundreds of years to accumulate.

TEEN and NOW!

Great Discoveries In Office Technology:
The Fax Machine

Goodbye, office clutter (left)—instead of a multitude of machines you can get more things done in less time with just one multifunction machine (right) that scans, faxes from the PC, prints and copies—and it's about the size of a sheet of paper!

(NAPS)—Sending a fax from a home or office may be as routine as making a phone call for many folk these days, but a century ago, the facsimile machine was a brand new wonder.

Then: The Gray National Telautograph Company, founded in 1888, took its revolutionary transmitting machine to the Chicago World's Fair in 1893. Guests at the Fair were astounded to see news releases being received from the Republican Convention in Cleveland, more than 430 miles away.

Now: Today, the former Gray National Telautograph Company is called OMNIFAX. The original facsimile company has now come out with what may be the smallest and most affordable multifunction office machine ever made: a state-of-the-art plain paper fax machine that also prints, copies scans and faxes from the PC.

Called the OMNIFAX G5, it's a state-of-the-art 14.4K-bits-per-second plain paper fax, an advanced PC fax modem, a laser quality printer, a personal copier and a scanner with OCR capabilities. You get all that in a compact portable desktop unit only slightly larger than a sheet of paper!

"Our new 5-in-1 OMNIFAX G5 will be the ideal machine for the telecommuter, the executive, the crowded small business or the home office, eliminating the expense and clutter of several single function machines," says Jerry Hutton, vice president of national sales and marketing at the company. "Users can simultaneously scan one document, print a second and send or receive a third."

For many people who work in an office or out of their homes, this amazing multifunction machine can banish clutter and boost productivity. To learn more, call 1-800-221-8330.

To save lives and prevent needless injuries in West Sacramento, the West Sacramento Fire Department has joined forces with the International Association of Fire Chiefs and Energizer Batteries for the annual "Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery" campaign. "Change" urges all Americans to adopt a simple, lifesaving habit: changing smoke detector batteries when clocks are changed back from daylight-savings time each fall.

"A working smoke detector is a home's best defense against fire because it gives an early warning and provides critical extra seconds to escape," explains West Sacramento Fire Chief, Fred Postel. "Unfortunately, sometimes people forget to install a fresh battery or they remove it to use in a toy or other home appliance."

In addition to changing smoke detector batteries, the fire department recommends that residents also use the "extra" hour from the time change to take other fire safety measures including checking the smoke detector itself by pushing the test button, changing flashlight batteries, planning "two ways out" and practicing those escape routes with the entire family.

State. The fact of the matter is, that the State hasn't got it.

I'm a Democrat, but I believe in fiscal responsibility. Your outgo should equal your income.

Many of our representatives throughout the State still cling to a credit-card mentality. Buy it, charge it and shy of a miracle like winning the lottery or some other windfall, set themselves up for bankruptcy.

I wouldn't want to see us in the position that the Federal Government is in now, with fully one-third of its income going to service the national debt and with no established limit on the implementation of innovative ideas for levying new taxes and increasing old ones.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
2♦	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

Opening lead — four of clubs.

This deal occurred in a preliminary match at the 1991 World Team Championship in Yokohama, Japan. North-South were Jeff Meckstroth and Eric Rodwell of the United States, pitted against Great Britain's Tony Forrester and Andy Robson.

Meckstroth's opening two diamond bid indicated either a weak two bid in one of the majors or a powerful hand. Rodwell's two notrump asked for a clarification, and three notrump showed a weak two with a good suit, which, given Rodwell's hand, had to be spades.

Forrester led a low club, and declarer took East's nine with the jack. The three of spades was led to dummy's king, which held, and the spade queen was taken by West's ace. Forrester then found the only return to threaten the contract — another low club.

With ordinary play, the contract would now have failed. After taking East's ten of clubs with the king, declarer would try to reach dummy's good spades by leading a diamond. But West would win with the king and cash three clubs to defeat the contract.

However, Rodwell has not reached the pinnacle of bridge success by making routine or ordinary plays. Reading the situation perfectly, he allowed East's ten of clubs to hold at trick four! This brilliant stroke effectively short-circuited the defense.

Unable to continue clubs, East shifted to a heart. Rodwell won and returned the diamond queen, ducked by Forrester as Robson followed with the ten. Rodwell continued with a low diamond and Forrester, fearing his partner might have started with the A-10 doubleton, ducked again. This allowed declarer to reach dummy, and he scored the rest of the tricks.

Note that even if Forrester had taken his king of diamonds and cashed the club ace, Rodwell still would have made nine tricks and his contract for an excellent result.
